

STC Coordinate Systems Overview

There are three types of coordinate systems: generic, pixel, and astronomical.

A coordinate system consists of one or more coordinate frames.

A coordinate frame typically consists of a reference frame, a reference position (origin) and a "flavor". Pixel, time, and space may contain additional optional references.

